

Cheakamus "Chek" Climbing Area

Getting There

Heading north from Squamish, Cheakamus can be found on the right hand side of the road approximately 25km north of the Squamish McDonalds. It is accessed via the Conroy Creek Forest Service Road. Throughout the year this road may be active for logging so leave some room where you park. There are three options for parking. The first is right of Hwy 99, most cars without 4WD will end up here. The second is about 2/3's of the way up the road in a parking lot by the outhouse. The third is at the very top of the road, the top of the road can get ugly at times but 4WD will get you to the upper parking every time.

About The Climbing

Cheakamus is host to some of the hardest climbs in North America but also offers a good variety of easier climbing. Most walls receive PM shade. The area can get busy during the summer as it is the most dense sport climbing crag in the Squamish area and it has seen quite a bit of development over the last couple of years.
